Salem Improvement Co.

WADE'S OPERA COMIQUE CO.—This strong organization has been engaged for fall week, commencing on Monday, September 11th. They come to us highly recommended having received the highest commendations from both press and public wherever they have appeared. The repertoire is an extensive one, embracing the comic opera successes of the day. Among others the "Maecius," "Pinafore," "Mikado," "Billy Taylor," "Patience," "Said Pasha," "Erminie," "Ship Ahoy," "Pirates of Penzance," "Olivette," "Johannes," etc. The company numbers forty people. Seats now on sale at Patton's.

MAY NOT GET HIM.—Today Superintendent Geo. Downing is in waiting at San Quentin, California, for James Miller whose term of imprisonment expires. Miller is the man who took advantage of the confidence reposed in him as trustee in the Oregon penitentiary and made good his escape, and was shortly afterward convicted of some crime in California. A dispatch today says the sheriff of Alameda county, Cal., and the chief of police of Oakland are on hands with a writ of habeas corpus wanting Miller on a serious charge. Mr. Downing may have no company on his homeward trip.

CURSED A WOMAN.—This morning a hobo called at the residence of Mrs. Burrows and asked Mrs. Burrows for something to eat. Being alone Mrs. Burrows directed him to another place near by, adding that if he failed, to return and she would furnish him a breakfast. The wily hobo took this to be a means of notifying an officer to have him arrested, and he began cursing the lady with the fluency of a sailor. Officer Keene was notified and was promptly on the scene, but the foul-mouthed tramp had taken the hint and sought refuge in flight.

HOPS NOT SUFFERING.—In interviews with numerous hop growers, today, we learn that the present cool damp weather will not harm the hop crop for at least ten days. If the weather should turn off warm and remain cloudy and rain then there would be great danger. All are of the opinion that the lice will not appear to any great extent. Many of the yards are picking, notwithstanding the rains.

ANOTHER CHINESE RAID.—The sheriff is in receipt of a communication from St. Paul, stating that another Chinese raid was made in that vicinity night before last. Thirty men, five of whom were armed with guns, went to a yard on the Mary Alpa place, two miles north of St. Paul, which is leased by a Chinaman, named Jim Cook. This Chinaman boss and his Mongolian pickers were ordered to leave, which they did.

IS NOT BELIEVED.—The Journal learns through a man from Grants Pass that that part of Slagle's confession implicating others is not believed by those acquainted with the prisoner and those he accuses. According to Slagle's written confession to the sheriff, he charges Blake Baldwin as the man who laid the plans and also implicates John Coffee and Joe Fields.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.—The school directors met this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The bids for printing the rules and regulations were opened and the contract awarded to the E. M. Waite Printing Co., at $91.00. On motion the further consideration of the matter of printing was laid on the table. A full board adjourned to the next regular meeting.

TWO TODAY.—Marriage license were today issued by the clerk to D. J. Yoder and Miss Sarah Achenbrenner and to Saxon P. Kerr and Miss Helen A. Danforth.

OUR SEASIDE LETTER.

The Way They Receive Their Husbands at Newport.

SEA GULLS CATCHING ONTO A WHALE

How Two Willamette Valley Girls Were Struck by a Swell.

Don't be a kicker, don't be a clam; Try to be sociable, But never take a dram If you can't take a drink Without getting on a jam. WELCOMING HUBBY.

Young married women always welcome their husbands in the most affectionate manner when they arrive Saturday night to spend Sunday with the family. You can almost tell how long a mat has been married by the reception he receives. If her arms go clear around his neck and lock behind his ears scarcely a year has intervened since the license was issued. If six months or less she does all that and kind o'glues her bill onto his for a season. People older and more experienced in matrimony are just as loving but not so demonstrative. The young wife's reception of hubby at the coast reminds one of Byron's description of a certain game bird's habits:

"Man is an omnivorous production, He cannot live like the woodcock—by section."

OPTICAL ILLUSIONS.

The r. large of the mist on the beach is productive of some comical illusions. At a certain distance and angle everything has a certain, luminous enlarged appearance. Sea gulls away off look like people and a lot of them struggling over a fish knocked out and flapping on the rocks resemble a ship's crew dispatching a whale. Coming closer it was a two-pound hake. I had him for dinner. My shoes on the sands twenty rods away resemble box cars.

THE SEA GULLS

are beautiful creatures, and two years of production by the Oregon law, making it a crime to shoot them, has rendered the gulls at Yaquina Bay numerous and tame. There are many kinds from a wee one no bigger than a sparrow to birds as large and awkward as a goose. Like some people, they always appear very busy and yet they have nothing to do but loaf, eat and squawk. Chuck full of business, yet always ready for a caucus on the beach or a mass meeting on the sand spit to denounce the rising tide.

THE DIFFERENCE.

Since stopping here I have learned the difference between business and embezzlement. When a few prominent and wealthy men organize a boom and trust company and employ a secretary to rope in other people it is business. When their secretary John L. Ayer ropes them in, it is embezzlement. When the Job Bros. at Corvallis cause thousands of dollars of public money and private bank deposits to disappear, that is business. When a poor school clerk uses $80 school money and replaces it that is embezzlement and he goes to the pen two years.

THE BAY VIEW.

A $150 sea otter skin is part of the attractions at the Bay View house. Some landlords get fat pines starving people but Col. Pete Abbey, of the Bay View house don't seem to get poor making other people fat. Several people had to leave this house this summer because they got to resemble a walrus so much they could not see out of their eyes. A celebrated anti-fat hotel in the valley soon restored them to their normal dimensions. At Abbey's you get not only the fat of the land but the fat of the sea and a few meals there make one begin to resemble G. Cleveland.

WHAT KILLS PEOPLE.

A good many people here fret about the fog. Yet fog does not kill half as many as whisky.

STRUCK BY A SWELL.

As pretty a sight as has been witnessed in many a day was a distressing accident that happened the last day of surf bathing at Newport. A heavy Southwestern swell struck two valley girls and rolled them over like balls on the beach. They picked themselves up, a mass of sand, seaweed and perfectly drenched with sea water, and made a run for the bath house.

They were not hurt half as bad however as another woman out on dry land who was struck on a swell from Portland. E. HOFER.

CHINESE RIOTERS SENTENCED.

Justice Batchelor Holds all But Four for the Grand Jury.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the eighteen prisoners, charged with rioting, were marched from the county jail to the circuit court room for a preliminary hearing before Justice Batchelor.

The prosecution was ably represented by Attorney Condit, Bligham & D'Arcy.

No speech was made against the prisoners.

Without any legal assistance, the crusaders also put some pointed questions, the evident object of which was to show to the justice that they were not boisterous and disorderly, and that they used no violence nor force in routing the Chinamen. Whitman, the jeweler of Hubbard, and Harris, the grocer clerk of Portland, also took the witness stand, and made very concise statements, and while no doubt omitting some little incidents that would not create sentiment in favor of their cause, their evidence corresponded with other witnesses except in the case of conversation that took place between the leaders and L. J. McKinney.

McKinney stated that the crowd drove to his house, and Whitman and Harris met him in consultation between his residence and the hop house.

The evidence of Whitman and Harris is at variance with McKinney's in saying that McKinney said he was perfectly willing for the whites to pick his hops, and referred them to the China boss.

Evidence showed that some of the party had sticks when they went to the McKinney yard. The nearest approach to violence that was proven was the fact that one Chinaman was assisted to place his pack in the wagon while they were getting ready to leave. It was also established that the crusaders were the direct cause of the Mongolians leaving McKinney's yard, though the crowd was not boisterous and demonstrative.

They told him they had white men to take the places of the Chinese in his hop yard. He told them he had a written contract with a boss Chinaman and had no authority to discharge those he might employ, and that they might see the boss and talk with him.

Justice Batchelor took the case under advisement at 4:30 and at 5:15 rendered his decision in the affair which was as follows: Whitman, Harris and Helm were held to appear before the grand jury under bonds of $500 each. Thompson, Williams, Peterson, Collins, McGraw, Malone, School, Whittle, Briggs, and West, each under bonds of $200. Duff, King, Smith, and Pitzel discharged. It was held by the court that the first three named were leaders, and that the last four were simply in bad company ignorant of the purpose of the crowd.

None of the men will give bonds, as they say they prefer to await the grand jury in jail.
